ASK MR. BAKER!

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—I understand that Mr. John Graham of the Dominion Savings Bank is to be retired with a pension in about a month, and that Mr. E. Crow Baker is to be rewarded with the position. Is there any truth in it? I only want to satisfy my curiosity. BREVITY.

THE CONCERT POLKA "VICTORIA"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—I appreciate very much your kind criticism of my concert which appeared in your issue of yesterday, and while doing so would thank your critic very much if he will point out to me the part of my Concert Polka "Victoria," that is taken from the "Princess Gavotte." I never have seen or heard of the said composition. I shall be happy to submit my future work to your able critic before venturing to publish music said to contain passages, the product of other musicians' brains, but would mildly suggest to him to be careful as to what he writes are he commits himself. Believe me yours, H. E. LOSEBY,
Bandmaster, H.M.S. Swiftsure.

THE MOULDERS' REPLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—The statements made by your paper yesterday in reference to the moulders' strike were not correct in every particular, hence we request a hearing. In the first place there has been no rumor of a non-union man coming to take the place of the gentlemen now acting for the company. That statement, coupled with the results, it is said, the moulders anticipated, originated entirely in the creation of your sensations informant. The company state that the old man in question will not join the union "on principle." This is the first intimation his fellow-workmen had that his ethical qualities predominated so largely over all considerations of policy or expediency.

As to the "cripple" feature of the case, whatever injury the man sustained at the time of the accident referred to, he is now as able-bodied as any of the men in the shop. Even if he should be thrown out on a cold world he wouldn't need to "beg;" he owns a good farm in Nova Scotia and a good balance at a bank in this city. We would like the "cripple" to explain what the "things" were that he saw in the union which incensed him so much against that organization, for if there are features of such a revolting character as to make a man prefer beggary to a compliance therewith, the sooner they are exposed the better for society. The statement that the Albion is the only open shop on the coast is partly true, for the only other we know of is that of Wilson Bros. of this city. Respectfully, &c., UNION MOULDERS.

MURDEROUS TRAMPS.

Marshalltown, Ia., Sept. 27.—An unwarranted and dastardly crime occurred at Holland yesterday, in which two tramps opened up a fusilade on the city authorities and seriously wounded one, and afterwards set fire to the depot and effected their escape. They were subsequently caught by the sheriff and posse of 100 men on horseback in an open field near Reinzick and were brought into Marshalltown last night for safe keeping and to prevent their lynching. At 2 o'clock this morning a large crowd surrounded the jail clamoring for the sheriff to give up the prisoners, but as the would be lynchers are without tools, their object frustrated. The prisoners cowered in their cells and implored the officers to save them.

LATER.—Every minute the crowd grows more clamorous and the streets are alive with citizens hastening to the vicinity of the jail.

New York, Sept. 27.—Holders of sugar trust certificates are filled with dismay, and it is thought some of them will be bankrupt before the close of business. In two hours following the opening of the market this morning four millions of market value of their securities had been wiped out. The opening price was 95 against 99 at yesterday's closing. Then it continued dropping till it reached 88. The covering of shorts caused a slight reaction, but the rush to sell continued and prices went still lower.

THE LONDON STRIKE.

New York, Sept. 26.—Speaking of the result and effect of the great London strike, Henry George said:

"The strike was a success, but that does not solve the labor problem, nor pretend to, only in this much, that it awakes the popular mind to the condition of affairs and makes all look for some real remedy. John Burns, the noble man who handled the strike like a general, is a socialist. He is a workingman, self-educated, with great personal force and unselfish purpose. He sees that the strike can never solve the great labor problem of the age, and so he relies on the promises and delusive hopes of socialism as a remedy, and if the single-tax idea is rejected his remedy, it seems to me, is the only alternative as a result of the strike.

"The strike, certainly, was an encouragement to the dissatisfied. I am greatly mistaken if it does not tend to strengthen the strike spirit both in England and America."

Contrasting the condition of the laboring classes in London with those in New York, Mr. George remarks: "The advantage is with us, although I am sorry to say the advantage is not great. Labor organizations have done nothing to better the condition of the unskilled classes. Trade unions are combinations of skilled men and the more they protect themselves the harder becomes the lot of all men beneath them; we have learned to produce but we have not yet applied, just laws of distribution."

IN A SEA OF FLAME.

Terrible Accident at a Pittsburg Furnace.

Pittsburg, Sept. 26.—Furnace "C" of Edgar Thomson's steel works at Braddock, was not working satisfactorily today, and at seven o'clock this evening, W. B. Jones, manager of the steel works, together with six of his men, went to work to remedy the trouble. It was discovered that a hard crust of cinders had formed inside of the furnace. An orifice 15 inches in diameter was made through the side of the furnace stack, which is 80 feet high and 20 in diameter. Through this hole a heavy iron bar was used to break the cinder crust. In an instant the crust gave way and a perfect river of molten iron and cinder gushed through the aperture, literally covering Capt. Jones and his workmen in a sea of flame and hurling them in all directions. Capt. Jones was picked up in the sand-pit fully forty feet from the stack. The others were lifted about the same distance in all other directions. A Hungarian who was in the party has not yet been found. The fatally burned are as follows: Mike Quinn, foreman; Harry Connell, probably fatally burned; Patrick Burns, seriously burned; John Nee, seriously burned; Capt. Jones is terribly burned and his physicians are apprehensive but hopeful. The scenes immediately following the accident are almost beyond description, the immense stockhouse being fairly overflowed with the seething liquid. The injured were brought to the hospital here. The damage to the furnace is not great.

LATER DETAILS.

The skulls and arms of two bodies were found this morning at the Edgar Thompson steel works. They belonged to workmen who were standing near the furnace last night when it burst. They were caught in the torrent of metal and buried in it. The bones were imbedded in a cinder of iron which had cooled during the night and could not be recovered until the great mass of slag is broken up. Capt. Jones is still in a critical condition, but his physicians have hopes of his recovery. Four of the other persons burned so badly are still alive and as far as is now known but two lives were lost.

CHILLIWHACK FAIR.

It Opens Auspiciously—Good Display of Stock.

Chilliwhack, Sept. 25.—The fair opened auspiciously and things are very lively. The number of entries are about the same as last year in most classes of exhibits, except horses and cattle, which are considerably larger. The show of thoroughbred cattle and graded stock is very large and fine, and a noticeable improvement over last year, particularly in Holstains and Jerseys. In horses better blood is also more observed on all sides, and the number of entries is larger than usual. This is taken as positive proof of the growing wealth of this flourishing municipality. Flourishing it is, and so it will continue.

The ladies come to the front this year with finer displays of fancy work, knitted articles, etc. The floral display is magnificent and wonderfully large. The dairy and vegetable exhibits are excellent. J. W. Wells, of Mission, shows a splendid sample of broom corn, which proves this important article of commerce can be grown to perfection in British Columbia. He also shows field corn eleven feet high, with ears 15 to 18 inches long, very curious vegetable peaches, the champion pumpkin (weighing 150 pounds and a brace of cauliflower weighing 16 pounds each. A. C. Wells shows a sheaf of American banner oats, 6½ ft. high, with heads wonderful to behold. His entire crop of three oats averaged 100 bushels to the acre. L. M. Hall exhibits mangold wurzels, 27 inches long, 18 inches in circumference, and weighing 25 pounds. J. Reece has a magnificent display of vegetables. His Swede turnips average 18 pounds each; short white carrots measure 17 inches in circumference, sugar beets averaging 17 per hundred pounds, and globe mangolds of mammoth size. J. McCutcheon has the finest display of Northern Spy variety of apples, and also a splendid showing of most luscious dessert pears. P. H. Good all has cooking pears averaging 30 ounces each. H. Kipp shows Canadian black walnuts, sweet chestnuts and butternuts, which are well worthy of special mention.

The president, Mr. Webb, and the secretary, Mr. G. W. Chadsey, as well as the directors of the association, are up to their eyes in work, and, to their credit be it said, everything has progressed smoothly. The takers of the first prizes are Messrs. Peers, Kipp, Williams & Brown, Knight, Hall, Rees, Powers, Adder and Higginson. For farm produce Messrs. Kipp, Wells, Street, Rees, McGillivray, Knight, Hall, Peers and Adder. The special prize for lady-riders was competed for by Misses McCutcheon, McKeever, Kipp and Nellie Kipp. All places of accommodation are crowded.

Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Starr returned from the mainland last night.

W. J. Raymond, special correspondent of the New York Herald, is in the city obtaining information for the mammoth Dominion edition of that journal.

Mr. James McB. Smith, Provincial Auditor, received yesterday a telegram from Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, informing him of the death of his father, Alexander Smith, Esq., of Pownal.

Lady Selkirk and the Countess Downger of Shrewsbury, with their servants, arrived from Vancouver last evening by the Islander, and it is understood will proceed on their journey by the Sound steamer in the morning. Their ladyships were met at Vancouver by Mr. Thomas R. Smith, Assistant Commissioner of the H. B. Co. and upon arrival here proceeded to the Driard, and subsequently to Christ Church Cathedral in order to attend the harvest festival services. During this morning their ladyships went out driving with His Honor, the Lieut.-Governor, and this afternoon took a further drive around the city accompanied by Mr. Smith.

Rev. P. McF. McLeod went up to Alberni yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Hall, brother of the Rev. Joseph Hall, of Nanaimo, has arrived on a week's visit. He comes from Ontario and was delighted with his trip.

John A. Straith and wife, are Miss Annie Magirl, are returning from their honeymoon trip spent in California.

Joseph A. Sayward and wife, who have been in Southern California for some time past, are on their way home.

Miss E. Ramsay, daughter of A. G. Ramsay, President of the Canada Life Assurance Company, Hamilton, Ontario, is a guest at the Driard with friends. Miss Ramsay was accompanied to Hot Springs Hotel by Miss Meredith of London, Miss Hendrie of Hamilton, and her brother and his wife. The party were delighted with the scenery.

R. Wingate, of Tacoma, is in the city.

Not So Fast.

The sensational item recently published that a bet of $1,000 was made that the City of Puebla would beat her best record by eight hours, is incorrect. Capt. Debney recognizes the fact that he has not an eighteen knot steamer and is proud of a 48-hour trip, and this is about the vessel's best steaming.

FOREIGN.

Russia's Military Plans—The French Elections, Etc.

Vienna, Sept. 27.—It is reported here that the Russian government intends to raise a large internal loan as a means of obtaining sufficient financial means to carry out its gigantic plans in anticipation of war. The money to be secured by this means will be devoted altogether to military and naval purposes. This step is contemplated in view of the uncertainty of the French alliance, which renders it difficult for Russia to raise funds out side of her own borders. At least 70,000,000 roubles will be expended in strengthening the navy; the remainder will be devoted to increasing the frontier fortifications and to the purchase of magazine rifles. These measures in addition to the new railway connection to the western frontier are believed here to indicate a well-defined purpose of making war at no very distant period.

Henry Chaplin, to the office of Minister of Agriculture, took place yesterday. Chaplin was returned to the seat by a vote of 4,386 to 3,078 received by the Gladstonian opponent, Francis Otter. In the last election Mr. Chaplin was returned unopposed.

CRIMINALS FEAR THE PRESS.

London, Sept. 26.—The court refused to grant an injunction restraining the New York Herald from publishing comments on the widow of Ernest Weld, who recently died in this city and whose body, at the request of his brothers, was exhumed for medical examination, owing to a suspicion that he died from the effect of poison. The court based the refusal on the ground that it had no jurisdiction.

THE COTTON CORNER.

POLICE AS MURDERERS.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Hamilton, Sept. 27.—A few days ago a man with a large roll of money engaged board with Mrs. Nellie Spencer in this city. His actions were very mysterious and he refused to eat with the other boarders. Mrs. Spencer, seeing a revolver in his room, became alarmed and notified the police. Two officers, Hankins and Campaign, were detailed to watch him, but he refused admittance to his room. To-day they broke down the door, when he fired two shots at them without effect. Campaign returned the fire and instantly killed the man, who is a total stranger here. The policeman is under arrest.

ROTTERDAM STRIKERS.

London, Sept. 27.—Ben Tillett, one of the leaders of the recent strike of dock laborers here, will probably arrive in Rotterdam to-morrow to assist the strikers there. He has sent pickets to Hardwick and has already intercepted a large number of "blacklegs" who were on their way to Rotterdam to take the places of the strikers. The strikers' committee will meet to-night to discuss the matter of donating funds to the Rotterdam strikers.

SPREADING RAPIDLY.

Rotterdam, Sept. 27.—The strike of the dock laborers is spreading rapidly and affecting other branches of business. Employees of several large cigar factories have joined the socialist leaders and accompanied by bands of music the strikers marched in a procession through the streets. On one of the docks where the steamship Holland is loading the strikers attempted to prevent the men from continuing work, but the police interfered and drove the strikers away. Several shipowners have already decided to grant the strikers' demand for an advance of twenty-five per cent. in wages and a corresponding advance for over time.

THE DEFENCE OF LONDON.

Troops to be Mobilized for the Purpose.

London, Sept. 26.—The Duke of Cambridge, commander-in-chief of Her Majesty's forces, has formally signified his approval of the plan to mobilize 100,000 volunteers for the defence of London. This is not to be taken as signifying any alarm at the defenceless condition of the metropolis, but is only one of the schemes which the army magnates have to busy themselves with from time to time in order to keep up an appearance of earning their salaries, not that the Duke himself feels impelled by necessity to any such show of activity; but that he is willing to play his part in the comedy by giving his sanction to the ingenious device of his younger officers. The mobilization will furnish employment for a host of otherwise idle subalterns, and at the same time will remove all ground for the occasional croaker to lament, in the Times, the possibility of an enemy capturing London some day before breakfast, and while the army is yet abed.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

LACROSSE.

The Capitals held a meeting last evening to consider the advisability of playing any more matches the present season. After due consideration the club decided to disband from active playing this year. They accepted the challenge sent by Vancouver to play in this city on the 28th, as the Westminsters had refused to come down on that date, but the Vancouvers also refused to come down giving it as their excuse that they were going to play in Westminster on the 4th of October. The Capitals have given both these clubs an opportunity to play and no arrangement seemed to meet with either club's approval. Consequently the home team do not intend to be led around just as it suits the other clubs. Before adjourning the club gave its expression of regret at losing their "point," J. Cambridge, who is leaving for the Royal City to reside permanently, and they wished him every success in his new departure—what is Victoria's loss is Westminster's gain.

ON THE BLACK LIST.

The following account of the fate of two men who would not hurt each other enough is interesting: "The fight between the featherweights, Warren and Murphy, Wednesday night, ended in a fiasco at nearly 2 o'clock in the morning. During the last two hours of the fight the men simply walked around the ring and hardly struck a blow.

They were evidently trying to force a draw, and in the sixty-ninth round Referee Cook declared the contest unsatisfactory and left the ring. The principals were then led from the ring by a police man and no decision rendered.

At a meeting of the directors of the California Athletic Club the following night, to take action on the featherweight fight, the following resolution was adopted: That the club do not donate to Murphy and Warren one dollar; that they be prohibited from ever entering the rooms of the club from this time forth, and that the board indorse the action of Referee Cook as being in accordance with the terms of the agreement entered into by Murphy and Warren with this club."

OUR NATIONAL PARK.

Superiority of Banff Springs Accommodation—Coal Deposits.

After all the experience that I've had with hot springs, I must say that those in Banff are far superior to any I've ever visited. The accommodations here are excellent. The C. P. R. Hotel is one of the finest I've ever seen. The Sanitarium is also first-class, besides half a dozen others. The scenery is something grand. Dr. Brett, proprietor of the Sanitarium, is one of the most enterprising men I've ever met, and full of push and stamina. He has in addition to the Sanitarium a fine residence with lovely grounds. I might also mention about the fine belt of coal we have here in the park. The belt extends from Cascade river north of Banff all along the flow river to Cochrane, in a southeasterly direction. Near the Cascade river and Anthracite mines, 4½ miles from here, it is pure anthracite coal and gradually merges into bituminous to the southeast. The veins dip at about forty degrees to the southwest generally. I haven't seen the coal in place as yet, but got my information from Mr. Jacob Smith, government surveyor. The veins are very large, from nine feet to fifteen and twenty.

The climate is very agreeable. We have occasional flurries of snow but it don't last.

I have seen some most wonderful cures myself so far, and have also heard of a number of cases from good authority. The number of crutches that are left at the springs substantiates that. The springs are situated 100 feet above the level of Banff. The water varies from 108° to 112° in temperature. The hotel rates are from $1.50 to $2.00 per day, and accommodation is good. The rates at the C. P. R. hotel are from $3.00 to $3.50 per day.

Court of Revision.

The court of revision met this morning at 10:30 and immediately adjourned, to enable Mayor Grant and Ald. Harrison to confer with Admiral Hoskeage.

At 2:30 the court again met and rendered a decision in the appeal of Rt. Rev. Bishop Lemmens to the effect that the assessment on this and all the church property similarly conditioned, remain unchanged. The only other decision rendered, up to 4 o'clock, was on the appeal of Mrs. McTavish, which was not allowed.

Naval.

Admiral Hoskeage will, in all probability, send one of Her Majesty's ships, at present on this station, to convey the Excellency, the Governor-General, from Vancouver to this city. No doubt the usual honors, due a gentleman occupying the important position of Governor-General of the Dominion, will be accorded by the fleet.

A PHASE OF THE LABOR QUESTION.

Mr. WARREN, an able writer on the subject of pauperism, has small sympathy, says the Oregonian, "with the sentimental view that would shift the responsibility for poverty from the shoulders of the individual to those of the state." WARREN argues that depraved morals have much to do with producing the evil of pauperism. The bread winner not only squanders his money in the gratification of his evil passions, but wastes and destroys the vitality which makes him valuable as the progenitor of a race of healthy minded, stalwart children, since he transmits to his posterity the seeds of social weakness and disorder. Mr. WARREN analyses the effects of individual misconduct, and reaches the conclusion that there is no poverty in the world which does not have its source in personal depravity. He says: "The strong, healthy men are sure to prosper, and it is unquestionably for the advantage of the race that only they should endure. It is a hard law, but law it is, that the weak must go to the wall," Mr. WARREN tells the truth, but not the whole truth. The workingman is largely responsible for his misfortunes, but he is not responsible for the whole of them. Improvident, a large proportion of workingmen are, and most grievously do they suffer for it, but they cannot be held responsible for the laborer's condition, exemplified by the London dockyards, where a hundred thousand men subsist by an occupation which would only keep twenty thousand steadily employed. Who is to be held responsible for a condition of things by which 100,000 men must live practically on the earnings of 20,000. Consider a condition where one man has practically to support five. We cannot hold capital responsible for this, it is true. It is the effect of over population. But how is virtue going to help the workingman under such circumstances. Mr. WARREN evidently when he treats of pauperism has in mind solely the conditions of labor in the United States. The labor question as regards the case of the London man is simply a case of self-preservation. Individual virtue is of no account when such conditions prevail. The conditions by which labor exists are not present. Exemplary as the laborer may be, starvation stares him in the face. Mr. WARREN, therefore, need not trouble himself with the vices of workingmen. Let him find some means of reducing competition among them and their vices will take care of themselves. As the labor problem is fast resolving itself into a question of self-preservation, and as labor itself is powerless to avert it, the remedy, if it comes at all, must originate in the state. It is not too much to say that the question would have been precipitated in Europe long before this had not the United States and Canada been a dumping-ground for its surplus paupers. But competition is getting closer in the States. The time will soon arrive when labor will exceed the demand, and then what?

EXTORTING CONFESSION BY TORTURE.

We look back with unfeigned horror to the period when the thumbscrew and the rack were employed to extort evidence from persons suspected of crime. We flatter ourselves that we have outgrown such inhumanity as this. It would indeed go hard with the man who should recommend that torture be again added to criminal procedure. But if torture by law is no longer legitimate, it would appear that some people have faith in its efficacy as an unconventional method of solving certain mysteries, as is evidenced by the recent action of a Kansas mob, who endeavored to extort the confession of murder from the supposed murderess of a child. The child, it appears, had been left in charge of a married couple while the parents went to work in the field. Later the child disappeared, and as the supposed guilty pair did not show as much anxiety as some of the neighbors thought they should, the suspicion of murder was aroused, and the mob took charge of them. The woman was commanded to confess or be hanged, and frightened out of her wits, she said she had killed the child and hid the body in the creek. The creek was searched but the body could not be found. Interrogated again, the bewildered woman had no confession to make, and so she was suspended by the neck until she was black in the face. She was then let down, but she had nothing to say, and assuming her silence to be consent of guilt she was again drawn up and probably would have died thus only that the parent of the child requested that her life be spared else with her confession the child's body might not be recovered. In the meantime the child turned up sound and well, having wandered away somewhere, and now the would-be vigilantes are liable to legal process, damages and imprisonment. Their treatment of the woman was of a nature which admits of no palliation. The conditions of western life have produced desperate men, and desperate remedies were necessary to effect a cure. At this late day, however, there is no occasion for self-constituted judges, jurors and executioners, and especially are "inquisitors" of the Torquemada type superfluous. An outrage of this description is the result of pure brutality, and it is to be hoped that the injured woman will make her inquisitors smart for their pains.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The new cruiser Baltimore of the United States navy is stated to have made twenty knots an hour on her trial trip, and the nation is holding its breath in its anxiety to see the confirmatory official report. The idea that a war ship that can fight and sail like that can be turned out by American builders takes away their breath.

European rulers manage to keep each other from falling into ennui. While Kaiser WILLIAM is playing the war lord in Hanover to show France what German armies are capable of, the French minister of war journeys down to Italy's old possessions in Savoy and reviews an army corps there by way of showing WILLIAM'S friend HUMBERT that two can play at the bullying game.

Says the New York World: The Shah has had a long interview with HADJI HASSEIN GROOLY KHAN about America. The details of their conversation are not known, but it is understood that the Shah's curiosity regarding our country has been aroused to a feverish heat. It is rumored that he is now making arrangments to come to America next spring incognito, though there are those who urge him to postpone his visit until 1892 in order that he may take in the world's fair.

There is a secret organization in Baltimore, Md., the object of which is to protect its members from unfortunate marriages. When one of the club feels that he is falling in love he confesses to his fellow-members and they appoint a committee to investigate the matter and advise him therein. In a certain sense the institution is a trust in hearts, but its object is higher than that of most monopolies. It strives to reduce the unhappiness of the world to a minimum, and has been fairly successful in its restricted field. The sad news, comes, however, that all the members of the organization are in love with the same girl.

The recent strike of dock laborers in London has drawn attention to the supremacy of that port in the foreign commerce of Great Britain. The magnitude of the trade of London's docks is now readily grasped. Last year 79,000 sea going vessels entered and cleared from the port, an average of 216 for every day in the year, these vessels having a tonnage of 30,609,000 tons, and carrying cargoes of the value of 226 millions sterling. Liverpool alone approaches London in the extent of its foreign commerce, with an annual shipping tonnage of 16,135,000 tons, and a trade of nearly 209 millions. The great bulk of the cocoa, coffee, tea wool, and materials entering into the manufacture of chemical products are imported through London, but breadstuffs enter principally at Liverpool. The great prop of the Mersey port is the Atlantic trade, which constitutes more than one-half of its commerce, while the Australian trade is practically wholly centered in London, as well as the continental trade.

At the Austrian military manœuvres at Leitomischl on Thursday the new Manlicher repeating rifles were used. The results were very impressive to say the least, the continuous discharges swing even the veterans. A striking defect in the efficiency of the rifles was apparent in the fact that the defenders exhausted their ammunition in five minutes, leaving them at the mercy of the enemy, but the umpires decided that the enemy was annihilated, evidently believing that noise is as potent as bullets. We gather from these military manœuvres that the battles of the next great war will be decided much as battles have always been, that is to say the infantry and cavalry charge will prove the decisive features. It is perfectly clear that the use of repeating arms precludes the chance of ammunition being made to hold out, for if a hundred rounds may be discharged in five minutes, a battle of an hour's duration would exceed the limits of the quantity of ammunition transportation. The army, in a word which succeeds in drawing the fire of its adversaries will win. It is notorious that in the field not one bullet in fifty kills or otherwise disables. Unless the charge is used as formerly the next great battle will simply be an immense skirmish, the one winning whose ammunition holds out the longest.

Prince HATZFELDT'S debts of honor size up to the very comfortable sum of $1,000,000. Mr. HATZFELDT is not the only man whose propensity for spending money is circumscribed only by his ability to get hold of it, although the consequences of actual penury which usually befall prodigals will scarcely be HATZFELDT'S lot. He is a prince and his friends will see him through. Of HATZFELDT'S prototypes we have Coal Oil TOMMY, who went through with a quarter of a million in twelve months, and the man who has written a book on "How I Lost £250,000 in Two Years." Spendthrifts, however, are not a feature of modern times. We have the prodigal son of Scripture story, and it is recorded of CÆSAR that he was several millions in debt when he started out to assume the consulship of Spain. The story goes that his creditors capiased him just as he was on the point of leaving Rome, and that CRASSUS went his security. But CÆSAR squandered money with an higher object than the gratification of the animal passions, and so we have no parallel between him and the prodigals of modern times. It is too bad that men who have squandered their patrimony in riotous living, particularly such men as HATZFELDT are not amenable to the consequences of their rashness. They should be compelled to earn a living on a railway or canal.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with the ordinary nostrums, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

—Mrs. E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, Warren county, N. Y., writes: "She has been troubled with asthma for four years, had to sit up night after night with it. She has taken two bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it, and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors."

BEAUTIFUL COLORS.

Where They Come From and What They Consist of.

The American Druggist has formulated a list of the choicest colors used in the arts, as follows: The cochineal insects furnish a great many of the very fine colors. Among them are the gorgeous carmine, the crimson, scarlet carmine, and purple lakes. The cuttlefish gives the sepia. It is the inky fluid which the fish discharges in order to render the water opaque when attacked. Indian yellow comes from the camel. Ivory chips produce the ivory black and bone black. The exquisite Prussian blue is made by fusing horses' hoofs and other refuse animal matter with impure potassium carbonate. This color was discovered accidentally. Various blacks are derived from roots, barks, and gums. Blue black comes from the charcoal of the vine stalk. Lamp black is soot from certain resinous substances. Turkey red is mad from the madder plant, which grows in Hindostan. The yellow sap of a tree of Siam produces gamboge; the natives catch the sap in cocoanut shells. Raw sienna is the natural earth from the neighborhood of Sienna, Italy. Raw umber is also an earth found near Umbria and burnt. India ink is made from burnt camphor. The Chinese are the only manufacturers of this ink, and they will not reveal the secret of its manufacture. Mastic is made from the gum of the mastic tree, which grows in the Grecian Archipelago. Bister is the soot of wood ashes. Very little real ultramarine is found in the market. It is obtained from the precious lapislazuli, and commands a fabulous price. Chinese white is zinc, scarlet is iodide of mercury, and native vermillion is from the quicksilver ore called cinnabar.

GITWINTHGUL JIM.

An Indian Tragedy.

Written for THE TIMES.

Fiction makes the man creature consistent, sane and reasonable, and reproaches the womankind with all the illogical and all the incoherent in human life. Now how lies the cold crude fact in this instance? I see the woman strutting up and down, commandant and garrison, levying war against an empire; and being in overwhelming majority on the field of action, she is quite confident about it. And shifty, naughty, inconsistent Jim goes blindly down to Gitwangek in quest of a pretty young widow. The people bore no ill will towards Jim, because he had shot a doctor; in fact they sympathized with him, especially since he had paid for his little indiscretion like a gentleman. So they warned him of his danger and told him the widow had gone away. This was not true, for Jim was hardly out of the village when he met the lady in question, and forgot all about law and its quibbles as he urged his suit, and said he was quite rich enough to have another wife, and it would be a fine way to spite Mrs. Jim, to whom he owed all his afflictions. The fool actually returned to the village to spend the night.

This was at noon and two hours after special constables Homans and Parker arrived at the Mission, two miles away. The gallant Washburn and Loring were at Hazelton planning a raid on the remote and semi-mythical Kish ke-gash murderers, were presently to hear they had absconded and would then set off at once for the real scene of action at Gitwangek. Behold the present arrivals as they salute Green, tall handsome men glowing with health and energy, wet and tired, but brim full of talk as they sit down to dinner—bacon, bread, coffee and appetite. They are dressed in a whimsical attempt at uniform quite out of character, and oddly set off by big rubber fishing boots and a whole arsenal of weapons. And now comes the news that the other party in this section is even now at the village. There he is sitting near the edge of the river bank above Gitwangak in hot argument with the head chief, the sedate Nieshcama-hal, who is to get a hundred dollars for Jim's capture, and two others. Charles, interpreter at the Mission, comes with a message from the constables, telling Jim that they want him to come and give himself up at the Mission House, to save them the trouble of arresting him. Jim swears he came for that purpose, and they set off up the trail. But a minute later and Jim distrusts the constables, but produces a letter from the Indian Agent on the coast, who had actually came up to Gitwangak not long before to arrange the matter. He wants to know the meaning of the letter but nobody can read it to him, and so he puts it away. Let us glance at this letter before it is defiled with blood:

"KITWANCOOL JIM:—The Indian agent, the friend of Indians, sends you a message. That all good men who do anything against the laws of the Queen go at once to the policeman and to the judges and explain the reason of his actions. That is the best and the manly thing to do and makes it easier to settle. The government will arrest you some time and you will be always hiding in the mountains, and when you are taken your punishment will be more than if you come yourself to the police and to the court. I, the Indians' friend, tell you so. [Signed.] C. TODD, Indian Agent."

The sentiments are better than the grammar, and there can be no doubt that could these words have been read to Jim he would have surrendered. In vain do these good men argue with Jim, in vain do the constables hope not to be bothered after their journey. After some two hours Jim felt so important at the interest taken in his little disagreement with the government that he sent a message to the constables "to go back to the salt water," and then disappeared.

It was about 6 o'clock and the constables, led by a boy, were coming down to the village nettled by a message which was described by one of them as "a most tantilizing sneer." As the boy led the way he looked, as it happened, towards some wooden monuments to the dead, not far from the trail, and behind one of them, crouching down but plainly in sight, was no less a person than Gitwinthgul Jim. Thereupon, before the white men had time to glance that way the led led them to the sharp edge of the river bank, and there poking his head out in a mysterious and deeply interested manner, kept the three sagacious constables poking their heads out also, and with eager questioning and a display of fine intelligence contemplating eleven large and four smaller boulders until Jim had time to get safely into the woods. After the white men had been shown by the head chief the place where Jim had spent the afternoon arguing from all points of the compass, they returned disappointed to the mission in the belief that Jim had left for his native village.

At dusk, however, Charles, the interpreter, came with the information that Jim was passing the night at the house of one Liginetha, a chief of Gitwangak, and that he intended to start for Gitwinthgul in the morning.

Parker, with two Indians, was sent to spend a particularly chilly night on the Gitwinthgul trail.

At midnight Homans and Green were on the way from the Mission house through the woods to the sleeping village. The night was cloudy, but some spectral shafts of light poured down from the welkin, revealing the mountains on either hand shrouded in gray, the river uncoiling its slow, black, susky course with unctuous gurgle and the oiled movements of deep, rapid water. Here on the bank was a cluster of huge spectral poles, carved with mishapen and uncouth things, that seem to writhe in the intense breathless hush of night. Two lines of houses faced the water, the former impending upon the beach strewn with canoes; the other, and nearer, following the steep brow of a little bank in the rear of the first. No windows flashed cheerful rays in this dark congeries of ill forms. The stench of ancient filth and slime, abhorrent to the foot; ghastly smoke going up from one of the roof holes; the whining of hungry and uneasy dogs; a sense, not confessed but deeply felt, of foreboding, were elements of this night scene. There lay foul murder dreamless, weighed down in leaden unconsciousness; here vengeance stole silent and frightful down—the vengeance of human society upon venomed, struggling crimes that must be slain, lest it slay until there be no safety for men on earth.

The constables stood before the front of a house third from this end of the lower row. This front was a low bare gable, a wean door in the midst.

There was a sound of movement within. Nieshcama-lah, the informer, knocked. A cheeky call was heard from within. He knocked again. Then the door opened and against the darkness stood a tall, comely young half-breed. Nieshcama-lah pushed into the house followed by Homans and Green. Some little light poured down through the roof hole to sharpen the intense blackness around, a blackness thronged with moving figures and vague, disquieting sounds. The scene of oppression in the air was broken into the quick pulsing of excitement. Many persons moved, many spoke. Standing in the rear end of the house facing the central hearth Homans descried a man on his left with a loose blanket thrown over his right shoulder.

"Is that Jim?"

"Niks Jim." The man was pointing to his own breast.

Quickly, "Is that you, Jim?"

"Nawirka!"

Suddenly he sprang into the midst of the house and stood crouching in the dim light from the roof hole. The blanket had fallen from him and in his hand, down by his hip was the gleam of a revolver. "What do you want!" He stamped furiously, levelled his revolver, and then with a loud cry dashed through the door and at full speed through the village.

Green was at his heels in an instant and fired four revolver shots as he ran. Homans fired also and both called loudly warning Jim to stop. He was running up the bank towards the upper row of houses when Green drew up, levelled his rifle and fired.

Presently Homans came upon something lying behind one of the upper houses. By the faint dawn light that had now made the night pallid and death-like, he saw a man raise himself a little from the ground.

"You're my prisoner, Jim."

Presentation to Mr. C. Horel of an Address and Purse.

The Blue Ribbon Society's meeting of the 21st inst. was well attended, but rather behind former meetings in matter of music (chiefly instrumental) rendered. Several who were to participate in the programme were prevented from attending, yet those who were present are well deserving of mention for their respective parts. Mr. C. Horel, a clear line of remarks on temperance; Vice-President Mrs. H. N. Rogers, both recitation and readings, in her usual first-class style; as also by Mrs. Horel, Mr. Lee, Hon. Secy., Miss Horel, and the President. Messrs. Pollard and Perkins and Mrs. Lee, well rendered songs; President, "power and destruction," and all parted to await next call of the chair.

A number of our people, one evening of late, took the opportunity of presenting Mr. C. Horel with an address and a purse as a small reminder of their appreciation of his untiring efforts in connection with the Sunday School work. From the address we subjoin:

DEAR MR. HOREL.—We, the recipients of your instruction, alike in the capacity of the Sunday school and out of it, beg to tender a slight recognition of appreciation of your untiring efforts, and if it be feeble, we trust you will bear in mind our intent. * * * Allow us to remind you that while you so strive and labor, you will enjoy the sunshine and not the cloud. We think of the many years you have spent in many lands, yet are thankful that now when your years approach the golden you are with us to counsel and direct. May it be the will of your Heavenly Father to spare you to much future usefulness in advocating principles of truth, sobriety and love. May you not only have delight in those around you, but as well may your own sons and daughters arise to call you blessed. Accept this small token at our hands, and to both yourself and Mrs. Horel we trust peace and happiness through the remainder of your lives.

After the address was read, Mr. Horel very fittingly replied, first mentioning his extreme surprise, and then, while thanking the donors, expressed his firm determination not only to try to live fully aright, but as well to try to induce others so to do. May it be added, a generally pleasant time was spent by all until morning dawned and all retired.

Western Wools.

Western wools, according to Western Rural, grow in popularity. There is not such immense profit in wool growing in Washington and Montana territories as there once was, because the flocks require more care, but with that care comes a much better quality of wool and higher prices. Montana wool ranks very much higher than it used to, and Montana is a great sheep country. The increase of sheep in the territory has been steady right along and the number will continue to increase because the conditions of sheep raising and wool growing are so favorable. If wool growing could be conducted in the haphazard way in which it was once done in the territories more money could be made for a time, but in the long run better wool will bring the most profit. As land grows more valuable in the new sections, of course there is less profit in wool. At present in this country the greatest profits from wool growing are made in Texas and the territories; and though the profits will grow somewhat less, the territories will always be splendid sheep sections.

Why He Grinned.

The good natured Irishman who wears badge No. 208 on the Indiana avenue line had a good deal of fun all by himself last Sunday afternoon. It was on one of his down trips when a tall man with glasses boarded his car at Sixteenth street and assumed a position on the rear platform. He remained there until Twelfth street was reached, and then he took a seat inside. At Adams street he alighted. The jolly conductor had been chuckling to himself since the man had entered the car, and when another passenger stepped on the platform at Monroe street the conductor said: "Did you see that man who got off at Adams? He got on at Sixteenth street, and he took out his pocketbook, picked a nickel out of it, handed me the pocketbook and carefully placed the nickel in his inside pocket. Of course I wondered what he meant, and held the pocketbook in front of me for a moment. He saw it and happened to think what he had done. Then he produced the coin and took the purse. I haven't seen anything so funny in the absent minded line since a fellow handed me two dimes stuck together and I gave him fifteen cents in change. He surely thought he had got the best of me, and his pleased look amused me greatly."—Chicago Herald.

His Distinguishing Feature.

At Oxford a good deal of fun is poked at the Welshmen who crowd to Jesus college, and are currently believed mostly to answer to the name of Jones. There arrived one evening at the porter's lodge a stranger, and a colloquy began as follows: Stranger—Kindly direct me to the rooms of Mr. Jones. Porter—There are forty-three Mr. Joneses in college, sir. Stranger—The man I wish to see is Mr. David Jones. Porter—Twenty-one Mr. David Joneses in college, sir. Stranger—My Mr. David Jones has red hair. Porter—Seven Mr. David Joneses have red hair. Stranger (in despair)—This is very awkward. Mr. David Jones asked me to come and take wine with him. Porter—Why didn't you tell me that at first, sir? Second staircase, ground floor, right. All the other Mr. Joneses drink beer.—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Historical Scar.

"Did you ever notice the peculiar one sided expression of Gen. Rosecrans' face?" said a gentleman to me a few days ago. "The register of the treasury and just pushed me on Pennsylvania avenue. "That peculiar expression," continued my companion, "has a history connected with it. Few people know that Gen. Rosecrans was the first man who ever refined petroleum. He experimented with it forty years ago. People said he was a fool, but he went on with his experiments. Presently, as though to prove what they had said, his petroleum blew up and burnt his face in a serious way. He has suffered from that injury ever since. When we consider the almost innumerable valuable uses to which petroleum has been put since that time, the scar on his face seems as honorable as any ever acquired in battle."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Hit or Miss.

Have you ever taken the trouble to keep a check on signal service forecasts and see how often they hit the mark? I have done so for the last few months, and have come to the conclusion that the most unexpected always happens. And now that an order has been issued ordering prophecies to extend two or three days ahead, we may expect valuable results if we can only persuade ourselves to read by contraries. Would it not save the service much ridicule and preserve its reputation at the same time, if when it has no means of telling what the weather is going to be, it would be bold enough to say so? Then, when it did make a prediction, people would know it was based on something more than mere surmise.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Lecture this Evening.

Rev. Mr. Lucas will speak on the subject of Imperial Federation at the Methodist church this evening. Chair to be taken at eight o'clock. Mayor Grant to preside.

Patti Rosa.

The Daily News says: "The first appearance in London of the American comedienne, Patti Rosa, was made at this theatre last night, and was completely successful. Miss Rosa is of the type, and follows the style of Lotta, known to Metropolitan audiences some few years ago. In personal appearance and physique, in vivacity and smartness, the new arrival is not a whit inferior to her predecessors on similar lines, and succeeded in keeping a fairly full house in constant merriment."

New Merchant Tailor.

Mr. J. McCallum, late of Sacramento, California, has taken a store in Pemberton's new block, 43 Fort street, and will open out to-morrow. Mr. McCallum is a gentleman of many years' experience in the business and opening out with a new stock of imported woolens, English, French, Scotch and Irish, of the latest design, he will command a share of the trade. None but first-class workmen will be employed.

A Sudden Death.

John Geddes, for a number of years in the employ of the C. P. N. Co., was found dead in his room in the Pritchard House about nine o'clock this morning. Deceased was around the streets last evening, and retired to bed about 11 o'clock. Not being around this morning, as usual, a friend went to his room and found that life had been extinct for some hours. From appearances, he had passed painlessly away, a newspaper which he evidently had been reading after retiring to bed was in his hand, and his dog "Jumbo" at his feet. His death was due to heart disease. Deceased came to this city about seven years ago, and for many years was a resident of Ottawa, Ont., where he was connected with a large lumbering firm. He was a member of the Masonic order. The brethren here have telegraphed to Ottawa to ascertain the wishes of friends in regard to the body.

Young Sports.

Messrs. T. N. Hibben and Thos. Nuttall, in half a day's fishing in Esquimalt harbor, yesterday, succeeded in taking a fine catch of salmon. The sport was very fine.

The Proceeds.

The net proceeds of the late evening concert given by Prof. Lemby of H. M. S. Swiftsure amounted to the neat sum of $118. Another concert is spoken of in the near future.

Customs Changes.

Herebelt Gordon, of Nanaimo, has been appointed preventive officer of customs, at a salary of one thousand a year, vice Bradley, deceased. Collector Clute, of New Westminster, becomes acting inspector.

Single Tax.

A Single Tax club has been organized at Vancouver with the following officers: George Polley, president; Wm. Crawford, vice-president, and W. A. Wilson, secretary. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and report on matters of detail.

His Reward

The contract for building a small bridge across a ravine just beyond Swan Lake hotel has been awarded to Wm. Snyder, a faithful supporter of the government. The price was not learned, but it is supposed to be commensurate with the services rendered at elections.

A Paint Mine.

The deposit of mineral paint discovered by Brown Bros., of Harrison Springs, is about 20 miles from that place. The bed is thick and covers a large area. The article is said to be equal to that imported from Sienna, Italy. A company will be organized to manufacture the article.

Joins the Majority.

Martin Manning, an old pioneer miner, died at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning. Deceased arrived in the province in the year 1862 from Australia on the ship Alice Thorndyke, Mr. Donald McKay and others now living in the city being among the party on board.

"Detective" Dunstan.

Since the flight of "detective" Wm. Dunstan his debts are bobbing up serenely. Preferring to live by his wits in preference to manual labor, it is not surprising that he took in many for various sums ranging from $5 to $70, the latter being contracted at a hotel in this city.

Coming North.

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—The steamer Walla Walla sailed for Victoria and Puget Sound ports this morning. Following are the passengers for Victoria: G. McDonald, Miss Williams, R. H. Dixon, Miss Moore, D. Fay, J. A. Sayward and wife, J. A. Straith and wife, and Mrs. E. Mallette.

Appointment.

The position on the police force recently vacated by Officer Hughes has been filled by the appointment of Wm. Irvine, formerly of Cedar Hill. Mr. Irvine is a man of family, has resided in the city and district for over a quarter of a century and is well qualified for the position in every way. The appointment is a good one.

An Indian Suicide.

On Wednesday last an Indian named Jack, aged about 35 years, committed suicide at Ladner's Landing by shooting himself in the body. The remains were brought down last evening in a canoe, accompanied by about 60 Indians. During the evening the body "laid in state" in a house on the reserve. In the house the entire body of Indians congregated, and their lamentations, consisting of screaming and shouting at the top of their voices, could be heard in the city. The body was interred this morning.

Refuge Home.

The following donations to the Refuge Home are thankfully acknowledged by managing committee: Fish and fruit, Mrs. Moore; pears, Mrs. Grant; bread, Mrs. Liddall; old linen and new scraps, Miss Cusack; pillows, Mrs. Turnbull; quilts, Miss McAdam; vegetables, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Humber; eggs, Mrs. Spofford; tables, Mrs. Capt. Grant and Mr. Spofford; curtain boards, Mr. Turnbull; dinner castor and salt cellars, Mrs. Craig.

I. O. O. F.

It is the intention, says the Nanaimo Free Press, to start a lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at Comox. Under the laws of the order, there must be five members who have attained the third degree to start the lodge. To carry out this provision several gentlemen came down from Comox this afternoon for the purpose of being initiated in Harmony Lodge at Wellington this evening, and then they will be able to start a new lodge at Comox. At the close of the ceremony, the Wellington brethren will regale the visitors to a supper.

THE MOULDERS' STRIKE.

The position of things in regard to the strike is about the same as yesterday, though, if anything, matters are a little worse. This morning the men went down to the works to get their tools and were refused admittance while, at the same time, the police were telephoned for. A reporter received the following statement:

FROM ONE OF THE STRIKERS

concerning the matter on behalf of the moulders. "Mr. Bullen," he said, "told the strikers yesterday to come to the shop to-day and get their pay and tools. Accordingly they all went down in a body at about 11:30 to-day for that purpose, when we were told we should not be allowed to enter the works. We respectfully protested against such treatment, but without effect further than an even more bluff refusal.

He allowed two of our number to go in and bring them all out pell-mell. They were all dumped on the sidewalk and while we were patiently picking out our respective tools, four officers made their appearance. They told us they were sent for by telephone on the following instructions, 'We are having a devil of a row down here, send a squad at once.' As a matter of fact no disturbance occurred at all." "We all feel indignant," said he, "at Mr. Bullen's gross imputation against our honor and our pacific intentions."

THE OTHER SIDE.

Mr. W. F. Bullen, manager of the Albion Iron Works, was seen by a reporter of THE TIMES this afternoon. Mr. Bullen said there was no question of wages at issue; it was simply a decision of the moulders to carry out the principles of their union. They asked him to discharge an old employee which he considered would be a cowardly thing to do. He would consider himself cowardly if he did it, and so would the strikers. Besides, when the men came to look for work they were not asked whether they belonged to a union and he did not care whether they did or not. They were paid wages which were satisfactory to them, some more and some less, according to their ability, and he did not see what more men could ask for. The matter was not one of public interest. One or two men who had been laid off in dull times were at the bottom of the trouble, and this was really more of a personal matter with them than anything else. He would prefer to see nothing further said about the matter for things would just go on the same as before. Three or four non-union men were at work, and a casting would be made to-morrow as usual. Some of the strikers were already disgusted with the affair but they had to stand in with the union.

In regard to the calling on the police, Mr. Bullen said some of the clerks telephoned up to the station at noon as it was feared there might be some little trouble on account of one or two non-union men being at work in the moulding shop.

RAILWAYS AND STEAMERS.

The Union Pacific will Certainly Build up Puget Sound.

Edward Cockingham, assistant general manager of the O. R. & N. Co. Portland, arrived in this city on official business last evening. In reference to the O. R. & N. Co.'s Victoria-Tacoma service, Mr. Cockingham says, it is the intention of the company to either build or purchase a steel steamer similar to the Olympian, and one that will give equally as good service, for this route. The company realize that the North Pacific is not a suitable boat for the Sound, and it is their determination to replace her with one more suitable just as soon as possible in order to give an excellent service, and build up the traffic on the Sound. The people of Victoria have been generous patrons of the O. R. & N. Co., and they will endeavor to meet all requirements of the Sound business. It is more than probable that the Union Pacific will in the near future, extend their system of railways to some point on Puget Sound, the visit of President Adams and other officials of that company having shown the Union Pacific directorate the necessity of such a step. One line will probably be built to Seattle and another to Port Townsend, thus giving the O. R. & N. Co. direct rail communication with Puget Sound.

FROM BEHRING SEA.

The sealing schooner Favorite, Capt. L. McLean, owned by Capt. Spring, arrived in the outer harbor this morning, and there being no favorable wind, she did not reach the dock until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Favorite left Behring sea on the 30th August, with a catch of 1700 seal skins, and was fourteen days in making Clayoquot Sound, which was the only point touched at during the entire voyage. Capt. McLean reports very good weather, with the exception of a heavy gale which occured on the 29th August. He did not once sight the Rush, but his canoes reported seeing her twice while out seal hunting. On the 2nd August he spoke the Lily L, of San Francisco, with a catch of 4200 skins. all were well on board and had not met the common enemy—the Rush.

THE THERESA,

The sealing schooner Theresa arrived off the harbor this afternoon with a catch of 825 skins. The vessel was boarded by a crew from the Rush while in Behring sea, when she had a catch of 400 skins, but as there were no green skins to be seen nothing was done, except that orders to "git" were given. At this particular time the sea was alive with seals and a case of sour grapes exemplified itself.

THE BESSIE REUTER.

The sealer, Bessie Reuter, of Astoria, was towed into the harbor at 4 o'clock this afternoon. She left Behring sea, Aug. 29th, with a catch of 550 skins.

LADY SELKIRK.

Lady Selkirk, daughter-in-law of the Earl of Selkirk, founder of the Red River Colony, arrived in the city accompanied by Lady Shrewsbury, last evening, and registered at the Driard. Though the history of Lord Selkirk's colony is familiar a short sketch of it will not be out of place in view of Lady Selkirk's visit here. The colonization project was first put forward by Thomas Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, about the year 1811. At that time Red river was the headquarters of the inland trading district, perfectly isolated from the rest of the world, and one of the principal scenes of contention between the Hudson's Bay Company's agents and those of the two rival companies, The North West and the X. Y. In the year mentioned Earl Selkirk purchased from the H. B. Co. the proprietory ownership of a vast tract of land, a small part of which lay along the Red river northward from Lake Winnipeg. About this time a compulsory exodus of the inhabitants of the mountain region in the County of Sutherland, Scotland, was in progress, and a great number of the tenantry from the estates of the Duchess of Sutherland, whose ancestors had lived there for years, went forth to all parts of the world.

They arrived on the Hudson Bay coast in the autumn of 1811, and spent the winter of that year amid cold of Arctic intensity and many privations at Churchill on the western shore of Hudson Bay. On the outbreak of the spring in 1812 they advanced inland, crossed Lake Winnipeg, ascended Red river, and at the confluence of the Assiniboine and Red rivers, about forty miles from the lake, they found themselves, metaphorically speaking, at home. They were in the centre of the American continent, fifteen or sixteen hundred miles in direct distance from the nearest city residence of civilized man in America and separated from the country whence they came by an impassible tract of prairie. They immediately met with opposition from the Canadian fur companies, who regarded them as invaders whose presence was detrimental to their interests. The Indians also objected to the cultivation of their hunting grounds, and were instigated to hostile proceedings against the new comers. The year 1812 passed without any satisfactory progress being made by the unfortunate people who spent the following winter in great misery in Fembina, whither they were driven by compulsion by the Indians. By the following spring, however, they had found means to mollify their opponents to such an extent as permitted their return to build log houses and cultivate the lands on the border of Red river. After having been left to enjoy a term of peace which lasted about a year, the colonists were again attacked by their persevering enemies, who, professing their determination to exterminate the society, reduced the huts they had built to cinders, killing some of the inhabitants in the process. Reinforced by a company of additional immigrants from Scotland, the settlers returned to the spots whence they had been driven and recommenced their labors in defiance of all the discouragement they had encountered. Such hostilities were maintained until June, 1816, when the adherents of the two parties met under such circumstances that a skirmish occurred, in which about twenty men lost their lives at a place now called Seven Oaks in the heart of the colony. For eight years after their arrival the colonists were forced to lead a life of adventure, discomfort and migration between Pembina and their homes, but after the fusion of the three companies in 1821, which had been brought about through the influence of the government, the settlement made steady progress and the colonists began to enjoy greater ease and tranquility than had fallen to their lot in Scotland.

During the period of hardship and privation a party of the colonists, discouraged with their lot, set out bravely for Western Ontario in winter time, going by the Lake of the Woods and north of Lake Superior. Several of them died on the way, but the greater number of them reached Lake Simcoe, where a few of their descendants now reside. Others of the colonists wandered away to the south, one of them going as far as Florida, where he settled down. From this on the colony grew slowly, few events varying the dull monotony of life in the wilderness. Lord Selkirk died in 1821 just at the time a brighter era was dawning upon the colony.

Killed by a Tree.

Thos. Colvin, at McPherson's logging camp, four miles north of Seymour Narrows, on Saturday last, was killed while engaged in chopping down trees. One tree in falling struck another, breaking a large limb. The limb in falling struck Colvin on the head, crushing his skull. After seven hours' unconsciousness Colvin expired. The body was brought to Comox for burial. The deceased was 28 years of age. He has two brothers at Cowichan, and his parents reside in the Old Country. He had been working at McPherson's camp for the past three years.
